

Results of IE+ research presented at European Educational Research Association Conference in Hamburg [1]

On the 3rd September IE+ project partner, the University of Gent, presented the results of project's research at the European Educational Research Association's 2019 Conference in Hamburg. The University of Gent's workshop presented the summary report of the IE+ project and looked to understand what can be learnt from analysing the situation of inclusive education in five different countries. This analysis is the result of research, conducted by the IE+ project partners, into the state of play of inclusive education in 5 European countries: Belgium, Bulgaria, Spain, Portugal, Greece. The report highlighted that across European it is still not yet possible to speak about "real inclusion" for children with (intellectual) disabilities. Key challenges to making "real inclusion" a reality were also identified in the report.

En savoir plus \(EASPD\) [2]

Liens

[1] <https://inshea.fr/fr/content/results-of-ie-research-presented-at-european-educational-research-association-conference-in>

[2] <https://www.easpd.eu/en/content/results-ie-research-presented-european-educational-research-association-conference-hamburg>